UPDATE ON MAILING PERMIT FROM USPS:

As you know, the Virginia USPS denied CRI a permit to mail the Ashtray/Lighter set, in spite of the fact that the New York USPS had already approved the packaging and issued a permit to Colibri. An appeal was made and heard yesterday, and the USPS ruled in favor of the Virginia decision NOT to issue a mailing permit to CRI.

Colibri is working on a protective "cap" for the lighter that they believe will "pass" the USPS tests. Unfortunately, it will have to be re-submitted to the BOE & USPS for re-testing. The protective "caps" could be applied to existing inventory at CRI (Colibri is willing to pay labor costs for this). By early next week, I should have information for us to project when we could expect to have approval and will discuss with CRI & Fulfillment when we might expect to be able to ship the lighters.

As I get further information, I will advise you.
